BUREAU MUST PRINT BONDS; PRIVATE BIDS ARE TOO HIGH

Treasury Officials Order Ralph to Make Best of Situation. Director Redoubles Efforts to Get Plate Engravers.

By BILL PRICE.

Private engraving and printing concerns located outside of Washington have submitted to the Treasury bids for printing Liberty loan bonds that are so far above the cost of getting them out in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, that it has been decided that the bureau will have to do the best possible with the emergency now confronting it.

Bids received by the Treasury Department late yesterday caused profound surprise among officials who studied the figures. It was officially stated today that these bids ran from 250 to 300 per cent above what it has cost the Government to do the same work under Director Ralph.

Buyers Must Wait.

The figures are so high that under no circumstances will any of the work be let out, and Director Ralph will be instructed that he will have to do the best in his power, regardless of the delay in the delivery to subscribers of the bonds recently bought by them and in lieu of which they now have temporary certificates.

Mr. Ralph will redouble the efforts he has made for some months to obtain plate printers and other trained

To relieve the strain that will be made by the next issue of bonds. Treasury officials are today trying to work out plans by which the bu reau will be saved as far as possible from printing temporary obligations. If the plans of Secretary McAdoo for the next issue can be worked out in advance the bureau will be directed to go to work upon engraving and print-ing the actual bonds to be delivered, thereby saving a duplication of work that has been necessary in the recent saue by first printing temporary onds and later the permanent ones.

Plate Printers Attack Ralph. The Plate Printer, the official organ of the plate printers of the country will tomorrow editorially attack Mr Ralph for alleged inconsistency in connection with the emergency that confronts his establishment. It will be pointed out that Mr. Ralph is badly in need of plate printers, but will not ask that printers called in the first draft of the national army be exempted on the ground that their services are of greater importance to the Government here than in the army

Plate printers are just as willing as any other men to serve their country in whatever capacity called, the editorial sets forth, but Mr. Ralph must "elect between the presses and the front. He must decide where the plate printers can best serve the naplate printers can onet serve the har-tion. If the bureau is short of print-ers, if the director needs men, why does he let these be taken from him when he says it will be impossible to from the grades of lieutenant colonel replace them?"

At the Bureau it was said today that probably. In the figure and major in the regular service. The new officers will be assigned to regiments in the next few days.

CHARGE UNIFORM MEN

CHARGE UNIFORM MEN will not ask for exemption unless di-rected by officials above him. If a much larger number of plate printers were in the first call Mr. Baiph might ask for exemption it was stated.

Ryan Charges Cheap Economy.

That the bureau is facing a tough proposition in connection with the war bonds, representatives of plate printers today admitted, but Editor Ryan of the Plate Printer, which has fought Director Ralph for years. charges it all up to the director himcharges it all up to the director himself. "Back in 1911, when there was

BLIND SOLDIERS IN GERMANY SET AT TILLING SOIL

Among the many plans proposed in Germany for the purpose of increasing 10234 the output of the farms and thus con tributing toward solving the problem of "holding out" is an experiment in teaching blinded soldiers to become farmers. Prof. Silex, a noted Berlin oculist, is the originator of the plan and, according to reports received by the London press, the Prince of Ples and one of his brothers, Count Frederick von Hochberg, have placed at Prof. Silex's disposal the necessary land, farmhouse, and agricultural im-plements. They have also undertaken to stock the farm with cattle, provide for the keep of the men, and furnish for the keep of the men, and furnish a teaching staff.
